NEW BISHOP WELCOMED

The new Bishop of Dover was installed in a special service at Canterbury Cathedral in front of 1,000 people on Saturday.

The Right Reverend Trevor Willmott, formerly the Bishop of Basingstoke, was installed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr Rowan Williams, during the ceremony.

The bishop, whose wife and daughter were at the service, said that he planned to spend his first weeks meeting residents of the town and surrounding area.

EXCLUSIVE

BY NICK AMES

A FUND-RAISING project to get wounded Royal Marines representing their country in the Paralympic Games in London in two years' time is due to be launched in Deal today (Wednesday).

Members of the Armed Forces and their supporters will gather round the town bandstand at 2.30pm, when the first cheque will be handed over.

The man behind the plan is county councillor Alan Marsh.

He said: "Wouldn't it be wonderful if an amputee Marine came home with a gold medal during the 2012 Games?"

"This is a different charity because it is focusing on those people in our Armed Forces who have been injured in the current conflicts.

"They are all young men who are in the prime of their lives and have been injured serving this country.

"They may not be able to go into action any more, but being the people that they are they are not going to lie down and die.

"They are still motivated and wanting to prove themselves and test their abilities. The attraction of a possible gold medal is one I am sure they will find inspirational.

"Also, if you are an opponent - how would you like to see one or more of these superfit young men coming down the track?"

"If someone has lost part of a leg there is no

Play the fool or go to knight school at castle this half-term

BY NICK AMES

A WEEK of royal mischief and tomfoolery will be on offer at Dover Castle during half-term.

King Henry II's troubadours will descend on the magnificent Great Tower to teach today's youngsters how to ham it up for his majesty – medieval style.

Every day from Saturday, February 13, until Sunday, February 21, 'Fool School' sessions run by costumed historical performers will give children an insight into the importance of entertainment at Henry's court and a chance to take part in a comic play to entertain the King.

Also, youngsters will be able to enter 'Knight School' to learn some of the many tasks a 12th-century knight would have undertaken during years of training – beginning as a page, to learn obedience and courtesy, through to squire, when they can hear how a knight would have used, worn and looked after his weapons and heavy armour.

Worthy and loyal candidates will

MEDIEVAL MADNESS: 'Fool School' and 'Knight School' will be held at Dover castle be awarded their Indenture of Knighthood and dubbed a knight of the realm by the King himself.

On selected days throughout the week, historical characters will be spilling the beans about the turbulent ups and downs of medieval courtly life in sessions aimed at adults.

The event has a morning and afternoon session each day.

The castle is open from 10am-4pm. Normal admission prices apply: adults £13.40; concessions £11.40; children £6.70; family ticket £33.50.

Admission allows access to all the other attractions Dover Castle has to offer, including Secret Wartime Tunnel tours.

Duo LINK up with NHS board

TWO health-care professionals who are members of the Kent Local Involvement Network are among the first to be co-opted on to the NHS Eastern and Coastal Kent Board.

Roy Coles and John Gallimore took up the invitation the day after National LINK Day. This has heralded as a new way of working for the board, which is committed to giving patients and the public a real say in how NHS services are planned.

Lorraine Denoris, director of communications for NHS Eastern and Coastal Kent, said this was just the start of a new ever-developing relationship.

She said: "We have the joint goal of improving health and social care for our local communities and I know the board is looking forward to the challenge and to working with new colleagues with different perspectives.

"By using the expertise of the LINK we can commission services that are more tailor-made to what people need and want."

Statistics show people in England will use the NHS an average of 2,153 times during their lifetime, the equivalent of once a fortnight.

Despite this, new research shows only 22 per cent have proactively had a say on how health and care services could better suit their needs.

Kent LINK is run by individuals and community groups and is independently supported. It finds out what the local population wants and monitors local services with the aim of giving people a stronger voice on how their health and social care services are delivered.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Jailed over car rage

A MAN has been sentenced to three years for inflicting grievous bodily harm after he drove his car at another man, leaving him with serious injuries.

The 31-year-old victim was struck by the car after being involved in an argument in Northbourne Avenue, Dover, in April last year.

Paul Russell, 41, of Henniker Close, Whitfield, was sentenced at Canterbury Crown Court after pleading guilty.

He was also sentenced to three months, to run concurrently, for drink-driving.

Rail campaign online

AN ACTION group complete with a new website has been set up to press for better rail services for Walmer Deal and Sandwich. Top of their agenda is a demand for the new high-speed trains to stop at Deal.

The campaigners believe there is strong demand for a local high-speed connection and the prospect of getting to London in under 70 minutes is hugely attractive in view of the current journey time of over two hours.

The website has an online petition to prime minister Gordon Brown and can be seen at www.trains4deal.com.

Castle body identified

A MAN found dead in the grounds of Dover Castle has been named as Dutchman Laurens Kemeling.

He was found by a member of English Heritage staff on Monday, January 18, in the moat outside the exterior wall of the castle.

Mr Kemeling, 21, who lived in the town of Ellecom, is believed to have travelled to the UK by Eurostar just over a week before he died.

Licence-dodgers fined

A TOTAL of 670 people in the Dover and Shepway areas were caught without a TV licence last year.

TV Licensing uses detector vans and hand-held scanners to find premises that have not paid the £142.50 necessary to watch televisions.

The Kent area with the highest number of offenders was Gravesend with 683, while across the county 417,000 offences were recorded.

Fines of up to £1,000 can be imposed on people who fail to pay for the licence.

Plight of young girl too scared to talk in public

■ BY MARIJKE COX

WHILE most little girls are difficult to keep quiet, Megan Coleman is the complete opposite – uttering not a single word in public for eight years.

Despite being a typical, happy 11-year-old, the Dover youngster has been unable to speak unless it is to close family members.

She is one of just a handful of children to suffer from selective mutism – a phobia of speaking in public – an anxiety disorder affecting about one in every 150 youngsters.

Megan was just four when she first stopped speaking.

Her mother Karen, 48, told KOS Media it was a small incident while on holiday that triggered the change in her chatty little girl.

She said: “She was in the swimming pool when she spoke to a lady, thinking it was me.

Anxious

“When her dad pointed out that it wasn’t me she got really upset. We don’t know whether it was this that caused it, but it all seemed to start from there.”

By the time Megan was five she wasn’t talking at all outside of her home and even then she would clam up if someone other than her mother, father or siblings were present. Even her grandparents never heard her utter a word.

Karen said: “She would talk to us in her normal chatty way, but as soon as someone else was there or she went out in public she would stop talking.

“She had this scared look on her face and she became very anxious.

PHOBIA: Megan Coleman, pictured with mum Karen, was diagnosed with selective mutism when she was aged six

“She never clapped or cried or even laughed when other people were around, or if she was outside the security of our home.”

But the youngster was not clamming up through choice.

Karen said: “Her teachers said there were always quiet pupils, but she wasn’t talking at all.

“One day someone asked me about it and said it could be selective mutism.

“I’d never heard of it before, but I searched the internet and matched up a lot of the symptoms that Megan had.”

Karen and her family were relieved to discover that there was a reason for Megan’s silence and she was diagnosed with selective mutism at the age of six.

After Megan not speaking for two years, speech therapist Miriam Jemmett got involved and a technique called ‘sliding in’ was used.

Maggie Johnson, the author of the Selective Mutism Resource Manual, said this was a process of gradual exposure.

She said: “Using the ‘sliding in’ technique you get the child relaxed and start them talking or counting, for example, to their parent.

“A person who they have trouble talking to would wait outside the door and gradually begin to join in counting with the child and parent.

“They would then come into the room.”

Ms Johnson, from Margate, says selective mutism is more common than people think.

“There are extreme cases like Megan’s or others where a child will speak to children but not adults, or vice versa – it’s very selective,” she said.

“It is a phobia, which means there is an automatic fear. It can be triggered by a day-to-day event, like in Megan’s case with the swimming pool incident, which gave her a shock.

“When children have a phobia such as being scared of the dark, people understand it. But with selective mutism they don’t and so they ask the child why they aren’t speaking, which puts even more pressure on them.”

Ms Johnson said it was about trying to understand and explaining to the child why it had happened.

In Megan’s case, speech therapy means she is now able to speak a few words and has gained a place at a grammar school.

Mum Karen said: “She’s definitely improving and we just hope that one day she will be able to overcome this, but we’ll have to wait and see.

“We try not to let it affect us. Megan is still a typical little girl who loves her ballet, tap and cheerleading.”

Megan’s case was explored on Monday in BBC One documentary My Child Won’t Speak.

Sad end for Churchill

THE landmark Churchill Hotel on the seafront at Dover has closed its doors.

It was once a prestigious place where Prince Edward stayed and has also been used by TV’s Jeremy Clarkson.

Owner Best Western Group said it closed down because of financial difficulties.

The local business community has regarded the move as a major blow as Dover seeks to regenerate itself, especially along the seafront area.

Chinese food of love

A SPECIAL Valentines buffet is being held at Chapter Eight Chinese restaurant in Dover town centre.

Owner Tony Tse is hosting the night at the King Street venue as part of the launch of Chinese New Year on Sunday, February 14, from 7.30pm.

Guests will be treated to entertainment and music and a selection of Chinese food. Tickets cost £22.50.

To book a ticket, call 01304 219888 or go to www.chaptereighthdover.co.uk.

Track events are 'real goal' for our injured marines reason why, with aid of modern technology, they cannot take part in track events. It will give people who have been injured a real positive goal to aim at.”

Deal has been chosen as the launchpad for the project because of its long history of association with the Royal Marines.

But the project has also attracted attention from other branches of the Armed Forces, with representatives of the RAF and the Gurkha Rifles set to attend today’s event.

Veterans groups will also be present, along with current members of the Royal Marines and several recently invalided out of the service.

In the Beijing Paralympic Games Great Britain came second in the medals table behind hosts China with a total of 102 (42 golds).

Despite this success, funding for the Paralympic Association was recently cut from £4.29 million to £1.86m.

Cllr Marsh said: “We will be presenting the first cheque on Wednesday, then hope that the fund-raising campaign will take off across Kent and further afield.”

Other countries actively look to wounded service personnel to take part in the Paralympics. The US even runs a Government-sponsored Paralympic Military Programme aimed at the Marine Corps.

LD Lines moves the Norman Spirit from Dover to Ramsgate

THE LD Lines ferry Norman Spirit, which is currently running from Dover to Boulogne, is to be transferred to the Ramsgate to Ostend crossing and renamed in March.

The vessel will be called the Ostend Spirit when it undertakes its new duties.

Meanwhile, a new LD Lines ship – currently called Brave Merchant – will ply the Channel between Dover and Boulogne under a new name yet to be decided.

Current Norman Spirit crew will either transfer on to the new run or take their place on the new ship.

The move follows an agreement between LD Lines and Ramsgate-based TransEuropa Ferries.

LD Lines managing director Christophe Santoni said: “We are pleased to announce this development, which will combine the considerable expertise of both companies.

“For LD Lines it will further expand our ferry service network and we can now offer the market an extensive choice of routes from the west to east across the English Channel to France, and now to a northern-located port in Belgium.

“The port of Ostend geographically is very well placed to attract new business from the Benelux countries, Germany and Eastern Europe.”

The new Dover service will utilise a 22,152-tonne vessel that was built in 1999. It has a capacity of 2,000 metres for freight and can take 400 passengers.

Passengers

The company says it will allow for more freight to be carried, although passengers will still be accommodated.

Dominique Penel, the general manager of Transeuropa Ferries, said: “This makes good economic sense for both companies in relation to moving the service forward.

“Transeuropa has established an excellent, solid freight business via Ramsgate-Ostend since we began in 1998 and now, with a larger ship, we have the potential to improve the level of service to our freight customers, while also developing the tourist traffic through LD Lines’s passenger marketing resources.”

Lifeboat crew cover 74 miles in challenge

A TOTAL of 142 miles on an exercise bike, rowing and running machines was the distance 'travelled' by the volunteer crew of the Dover lifeboat during their SOS Support Our Sports triathlon challenge.

Excellent support from the public saw collection buckets filled to the brim with £1,448.30.

The crew's target was to travel the equivalent distance of Margate to Hastings, the eastern and westernmost members of the Confederation of Cinque Ports.

This had been calculated to be 68 miles, but the crew did so well that by lunchtime they had 'reached' Hastings.

Determined to carry on, the crew eventually finished having travelled another 74 miles – the equivalent of reaching Shoreham-on-Sea in West Sussex.

BBC Radio Kent presenter John Warnett joined his BBC colleague and Dover lifeboat crew member Steve Ladner for the triathlon and ran several stints.

Lottery millions claimed

A GIANT Lottery jackpot of more than £3.7 million has finally been claimed by someone from the Dover district.

Last month, we reported that the owner of the winning ticket from the draw of Wednesday, December 2, had yet to claim their prize of £3,786,303.

All that was known was that the ticket – which had the winning numbers 2, 19, 22, 25, 34 and 47 – was bought in the Dover district, which as well as the town itself includes Deal, Sandwich and surrounding villages.

Now someone has come forward for the money and the claim is going through the process of validation.

Calais offers support for undersea metro

A NEW metro-style commuter train running from Calais to Kent could be in place by the start of the 2012 Olympics, according to French civic leaders.

Pas-de-Calais councillor Dominique Dupilet said the trains could run on the high-speed rail link, stopping in the French town before travelling on to local stations.

A spokesman at Kent County Council said proposals were outlined in the authority's Integrated Transport Strategy, which is part of the Unlocking Kent's Potential programme.

"It's part of the transport strategy for the next 20 years," he said.

He added that it was one of a number of plans outlined for the county. M. Dupilet said negotiations with his counterparts in Kent were under way, with the trains using the high-speed international Eurostar lines.

■ BY NICK AMES

Eurotunnel, the company which earns revenue from trains passing through, said it had been approached by both local governments about the project.

But a spokesman said it was still in its early stages and no decision had been reached.

The cost of the multi-million-pound project would be met by the respective local councils, which are expecting to enjoy a huge increase in revenue from people using Kent and the Pas de Calais as a base for tourism – especially for the 2012 Olympics.

The metro trains would be far more frequent than Eurostar, which only stops at stations such as Lille, Calais and Ashford infrequently. "Our region and Kent are in negotiations," said M. Dupilet.

"It's a metro which will be very useful given the threats to the Eurostar's regional service.

"The line will start from Lille, then stop at Calais, Ashford and London. The English are very keen, especially since Ashford station is threatened. We are very keen, too.

"But in order for the line to be rented, we have been told that the train has to leave from Lille. Frankly, negotiations will be over in time for the Olympic Games, but I would like the metro to last well beyond the Olympics."

The scheme follows a move by the French to cash in on the London Olympics by rebranding their region "part of Britain" – a move that has attracted criticism. But the ploy has helped land contracts with a string of foreign teams to train in France ahead of the 2012 Games.

Boulogne and Calais now claim that Britain no longer stops at the white cliffs of Dover.

"I consider that we are the south of England," said M. Dupilet.

"And because we're the south of England it's normal that we would associate ourselves with this extraordinary event."

TOUGH CALL: The talented young cast of Playground are hoping for success at the Dover Film Festival

'Oscar' awaits festival winner

AN 'Oscar' is up for grabs for the winner of the 2010 Dover Film Festival's Best Short Film competition.

Entries in the Best Documentary Short Film and Best Fictional Short Film will be vying for a replica Academy Award.

One of the films in the fictional section is Playground, made by Canterbury Christ Church College student Tom Shepherd.

The film, shot in Faversham in February last year, caused a stir when the police were called after a concerned passer-by thought the scenes of a policeman being clubbed to death were real.

Uninvited, by Astor student Helen Vidler, tells the story of a young man struggling to come to terms with the death of his girlfriend and his mother's attempts to help him.

Other fictional shorts are Panic To A Ridiculous Death, by Rubin Stein, and A Quiet Night In, by Roger Barker.

The two entries in the documentary section are Blériot Celebration Flight, by Eric Montagu, and The Hollingsbee Collection, by Kathleen Hollingsbee.

A TALL ORDER: It's all smiles after Gurkha engineers complete the relocation of the replica medieval trebuchet

Castle catapult 'jigsaw' moved by the Gurkhas

GURKHA military engineers have dismantled and re-erected the huge catapult that used to stand beside Dover Castle's Great Tower and moved it to a new location near the outer walls of the fortress.

The task saw the soldiers get to grips with a replica of medieval military hardware and took two weeks to complete.

The Gurkhas, renowned for their bravery and strength, were invited to help move the catapult by Brigadier Iain James OBE, Deputy Constable of Dover Castle.

H Troop, 69 Gurkha Field Squadron, who are based in Maidstone but were quartered in Folkestone for the duration of the task, carried out the work and relocation as part of their training.

Steve Lang, head of visitor operations at the castle, said: "We were delighted the Gurkhas agreed to help us with this unique task.

"The catapult is nine metres tall from the top of its arm and was dismantled screw by screw, with the pieces carried by hand to the new location.

■ BY NICK AMES

"It was a huge job – similar to taking a giant jigsaw puzzle apart and putting it back together again."

Gurkha Staff Sergeant Man Ale said: "It was a bit of a strange task but all part of military engineering. These are the skills we have and we like to take on new tasks."

During the siege of 1216, giant stone-throwing engines (or trebuchets) were used by medieval soldiers to bombard the castle walls with missiles.

After the recent transformation of the Great Tower into a replica of the lavish court of Henry II, the catapult is now on a site closer to where the originals were used.

Mr Lang said: "We received quotes from civilian companies about this work.

"All agreed they could take the thing apart, but the Gurkhas were the only ones who were confident they could put it all back together again."

NEWS IN BRIEF

MP has high laptop hopes

HUNDREDS of families with school-age children in east and south Kent could benefit from a new scheme offering a free laptop and broadband access, according to a Kent Labour MP.

The scheme, launched by prime minister Gordon Brown and schools secretary Ed Balls, will mean thousands of children and their parents will be able to get internet access at home to boost their school work.

Thanet South MP Dr Steve Ladyman is urging parents to check whether they qualify under the Home Access programme.

Families with children in years three to nine at school and eligible for free school meals can apply by phoning 0333 200 1004 or visiting www.homeaccess.org.uk.

Dr Ladyman said: "Computers are now as essential a part of education as books, pens and paper. That's why I welcome this new scheme."

Guaranteeing a fair Deal

DEALS recognition as a Fairtrade town by the national foundation followed a lengthy campaign by enthusiastic local volunteers backed by Deal Town Council.

Many shoppers are already familiar with the growing range of Fairtrade products, aimed at guaranteeing a fairer deal for producers, many based in the developing world.

Supporters are now looking forward to Fairtrade Fortnight (February 22-March 7), with events being planned to further raise awareness.

This and other initiatives will be taken into account when Deal's Fairtrade status is reviewed in a year's time.

Bin those butts and gum

CIGARETTE-end and chewing-gum bins have been placed in Market Square, Dover.

The district council has installed the three double-sided bins to discourage littering and improve the environment.

Nigel Collor, cabinet member for access and property management, said: "Following requests, we are pleased to trial these dedicated cigarette-butt and chewing-gum bins in Dover town centre.

"We will continue to work to improve our district's streets."

Crushing blow against old bangers

FORTY abandoned and untaxed vehicles were removed from the streets of Dover and the district at the end of last month.

Operation Cubit was carried out by the police in conjunction with the local authority and the DLVA.

The operation has contributed to a big fall in the number of abandoned and untaxed vehicles across the county.

Once removed from the streets, abandoned and untaxed vehicles are taken to a compound.

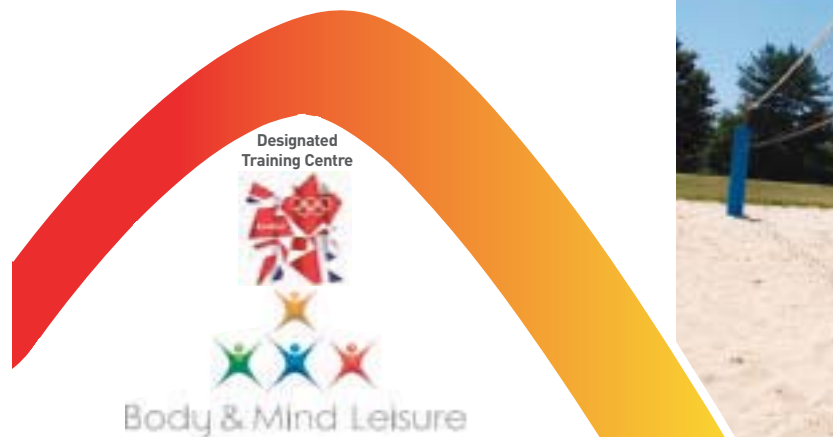

Vehicles not reclaimed can be destroyed. Owners have to pay a minimum of £100 fine, plus a £160 refundable surety fee to reclaim their vehicle, plus a storage fee of £21 per day.

Nadeem Aziz, chairman of the Dover Community Safety Partnership, said: "We continue to work closely with all our partners to make sure the district remains a safe place to live, work and visit.

"Operation Cubit continues to be a great success, removing untaxed and abandoned vehicles from our streets as quickly as possible."

To report an abandoned vehicle in the Dover district, phone 01304 872428.

Choking. Chest pain. Blacking out. Blood loss.

For symptoms of serious illnesses, and major accidents, choose A&E or 999.

A&E and 999 are emergency services that should only be used when people are badly injured or show the symptoms of critical illness. Choosing well ensures that essential treatment is given, in the shortest possible time.

Specialist advisor to help sexually-abused children

SUPPORT: The Young Person's Independent Sexual Violence Advisor will help to give abused children a voice

Grant will provide dedicated support for young rape victims

■ BY MARIJKE COX

A CHARITY supporting Kent's victims of rape and sexual violence has secured funding for Britain's first-ever children's independent advisor.

The new position means young people who have suffered abuse at the hands of rapists and paedophiles can access specialist, confidential support solely for youngsters.

Gravesend-based Family Matters was able to make the provision thanks to a grant of £64,000 from the Equalities and Human Rights Commission.

Malcolm Gilbert, operations director at the charity, said the new Young Person's Independent Sexual Violence Advisor (YP-ISVA) was vital.

He said: "Of the 200 rape victims we see, a quarter are aged 12 to 16.

"By offering this help we are filling a gap which has never been done before for children."

Mr Gilbert added that as well as being awarded the grant, the partnership between Family Matters, the Crown Prosecution Service and Kent Police through the Kent Criminal Justice Board had made real changes to victim support.

The organisations are also working with the UK Border Agency to help deal with young girls who have been trafficked for the sex trade.

Rebecca Masey, who has taken on the YP-ISVA position, will offer tailored support to children and young people who have suffered rape or sexual abuse and act as a gateway to the charity's therapy service.

Risk assessments will take place to ensure further victimisation is stopped. The focus will be on hard-to-reach groups and youngsters less likely to come forward for help. Close family members of victims will also receive support.

Deputy Chief Constable Adrian

Leppard, who chairs the Kent Criminal Justice Board, said he was sure that the specialist service would also help secure convictions.

"Through this role, vulnerable and emotionally-scarred children will get more of the help and support they need and deserve," he said.

One person who knows only too well the need for services like Family Matters is 24-year-old Sarah (not her real name).

Last August she was raped by two men after her drink was spiked. Speaking about her ordeal to KOS Media, she said she would not have been able to cope had it not been for the Adults' Independent Sexual Violence Advisor.

"It's important children are helped too," she said. "I wouldn't have been able to get through this without the counselling.

"I would just say to anybody, don't hide it. Come forward and get help."

Artefacts saved as fire museum made homeless

THE Kent fire service museum urgently needs a new home.

Fire chiefs have reluctantly been forced to move it from their Maidstone headquarters and are now hunting for a new location to house the collection.

Fire service historian Roger Mardon, from Canterbury, said he was sad about the closure but delighted his campaign to keep the collection together had been successful.

He said: "In my view, the museum should preferably be maintained at service headquarters, but if that were not to be it is important to preserve the collection intact.

"There was unanimous support [at the Kent Fire and Rescue Authority's planning and performance committee] for the principle of keeping the collection together.

"A project team, including representatives of the interested parties, is to be established to develop plans for a virtual [online] museum and for rehousing the artefacts.

"Committee chairman Keith Ferrin made it clear it was not the intention to close the existing museum straight away and he undertook that everything possible would be done to rehouse the collection in one place.

"While it is disappointing the museum will have to move, I am encouraged by the support for keeping the collection together. Every effort must be made to find somewhere this can be done."

The museum opens one day a week and includes artefacts including videos of fire, photographs and a hollowed-out tree trunk used as a water main.

A fire service spokesman said: "We have teams of staff who need to be located at our HQ to run the service and we do not have room to house them.

"This means we have to look at all options and freeing up space taken up by the museum has to be considered."

QUESTION & ANSWER

SIMON CHAMBERS

Q & A

The co-founder of the Dover War Memorial Project speaks to James Alexandre about the life of Walter Tull, rediscovering the area's historic connections and what the younger generation can learn from the past

Q Tell us something about yourself.

A I spent almost all of my working life with the BBC. So I am never happier than when I have a camera in my hand. I find people fascinating – everyone has different interests and a story to tell.

Q How did you first hear about Walter Tull?

A Walter Tull's name was one of some 800 on Dover Town War Memorial. I wanted to solve the mystery of why someone who had been born and lived in Folkestone is commemorated on our memorial in Dover and also on the parish memorial at River. My colleague Maggie discovered the many connections Walter has with Dover. Among them are that his sisters and step-parents lived at River and that his mother's family have been recorded at Hougham since the 1600s. Members of Walter's family still live in Dover. Walter's ancestry is published on Dover's Virtual Memorial at www.doverwarmemorialproject.org.uk, so anyone who thinks they may be connected can check there. Do let us know if you are.

Q What first made you get involved in the Dover War Memorial Project?

A Maggie and I were attending the Service of Remembrance in November 2005 at the Dover War Memorial. Maggie is a Dovorian and has relatives on the memorial. We realised that as years passed we might no longer know who all the people commemorated were. We determined to find out and record as much as possible. Sadly there are many more Dovorian casualties than are remembered on the memorial or in the Second World War Book of Remembrance.

Q What are the aims of the Dover War Memorial Project?

A To remember with honour and respect all those Dovorians who died in both world wars of the 20th century and their families. To ensure that future generations remember the sacrifices and bravery of their forebears. To inform and to bring people together; we love hearing from you. We visit relatives of casualties, hold public events and answer a variety of queries.

Q How important a role model do you believe Walter Tull is to Folkestone and Dover?

A Walter Tull was brought up with strong faith and family values – he overcame many adversities to attain success in two team-working careers. He portrays hope and inspires us by his self-sacrifice, dignity and integrity of character.

Q What do you think the younger generation can learn from this history?

A It's essential our younger people should understand the meaning of and respect for Remembrance. A good way of introducing such concepts is by learning about people who lived during these times.

Q Are there any other historical figures or events connected with the area you are hoping to explore?

A There is so much to discover – unknown stories, like Edith Johncock's, a nurse in the Great War who became a POW in Palestine, or the unrecognised Great War civilian casualties. This is especially pertinent in Dover, where the first bomb fell on English soil on Christmas Eve 1914, and in Folkestone, where 60 people were killed in Tontine Street alone at Whitsun 1917. This year we hope to create further educational material about a local casualty as unique as Walter Tull, but that depends on getting the funding.

Q How can people find out more about the project and get involved?

A I urge anyone with information about a Dover casualty to contact the project. People can join the Friends Of The Dover War Memorial Project, or sign up for their quarterly e-newsletter. Everyone who works on the project is a volunteer; across the world they do a variety of tasks, such as transcribing or visiting and photographing graves (maybe something that could be fitted into that next holiday abroad?). Or please help by sending a donation. There is more information on www.doverwarmemorialproject.org.uk.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Migrants on course for UK in clash with French police

FRENCH riot police have been involved in a stand-off with a group of migrants trying to get from Calais to the UK.

About 90 migrants spent the night at a hangar after the No Border group sent word it was offering shelter in the town, which is mostly used by migrants trying to get into Britain via Dover or the Channel Tunnel.

"The police are allowing the migrants to leave but not enter," said Rodolphe Netti, a member of a separate group called SOS.

About 75 anti-riot police and other reinforcements were deployed to help officers blocking the entrance to the shed. Police set up a security cordon around the building.

Green light for final stage of plans for new hospital

THE go-ahead for the final planning stages of the new Dover community hospital to be built on the Buckland hospital site has been given.

The East Kent Hospitals University NHS Foundation Trust Board says the decision to progress the planning application is dependent on a clean bill of health for the site, although initial investigations have already revealed that the risk of contamination is low.

Foundation trust chief executive Stuart Bain said: "This is an important project for the trust, the people of Dover and the surrounding districts, and after the delays caused by the potential flooding on the mid-town site the board is keen to make sure we are able to progress the work."

TWO Folkestone schools have announced plans to link up to improve the quality of education and support to their students.

Pent Valley Technology College in Surrenden Road and St Mary's Church of England Primary in Warren Road have begun consulting with parents about the tie-up, which would take effect from September 1, 2010.

Head-teachers Mario Citro, of Pent Valley, and John Bird, of St Mary's, believe the public debate may raise wider issues about the best way to provide the highest standards of education and care for students.

Flexible

A statement issued on behalf of both the schools' governing bodies said: "In many respects, we regard our proposals as very modest, but they are underpinned by a radical and exciting concept, which can be developed by all organisations concerned for children, from birth to adulthood.

"Schools as organisations within the British state system began in the 19th century.

■ BY JAMES ALEXANDRE

ry. Now in the 21st century, we require a more flexible system designed to meet the needs of children growing up in the modern world.

"Both St Mary's and Pent Valley share the view that schools must adapt to meet the needs of today's children and not look backward to a so-called golden age of schooling by trying to revamp systems of the past."

The governors said the schools had shared values based on "faith, community, responsibility and identity" that complement today's modern technology.

They said: "In this bold but essential venture, we aim to try to create a joined-up local system of education and support for the young people of Shepway."

St Mary's is being transformed thanks to a £2 million scheme that started in October to provide better classrooms

A new building will be put up between the existing infant and junior classes, effectively creating one school building.

This will create two full-sized classrooms, a library and a reception area.

Parents go online to apply for places

MORE than 13,000 families applied for their child's primary school place online.

Kent County Council received 11,737 online applications for reception year, almost 80 per cent of all expected applicants, and 1,829 online applications for year 3, equal to 73 per cent.

This is a big increase on last year, when 5,966 or 40 per cent of online applications were received for reception year.

Sarah Hohler, the county council's cabinet member for children, families and education, said: "KCC has tried to make sure that this facility is available to all parents."

Non-uniform day to feed Haiti children

DOVER College pupils organised a non-uniform day last month to raise money for a charity that feeds children left homeless by the Haiti earthquake.

A total of £1,380 was raised on Wednesday, January 20, towards the work of Mary's Meals. The international movement sets up school feeding projects to prevent poverty and hunger.

At the time of the earthquake the charity was feeding 12,000 children, more than 6,000 of them in the Cite Soleil slum. The seven schools in Cite Soleil have been damaged but not destroyed.

Mary's Meals will help repair these schools, support their pupils and assist with the wider recovery.

PERCY JACKSON & THE LIGHTNING THIEF

WIN! tickets to see Percy Jackson & The Lightning Thief, plus goodies

IT'S the 21st century, but the gods of Mount Olympus and assorted monsters have walked out of the pages of high school student Percy Jackson's Greek mythology texts and into his life.

And they're not happy: Zeus' lightning bolt has been stolen and Percy is the prime suspect. Even more troubling is the sudden disappearance of Percy's mother. As Percy adapts to his newly discovered status as a demi-god (his father is Poseidon), he finds himself caught between the battling titans of Mt Olympus. He and his friends embark on a cross-country adventure to catch the true lightning thief, save Percy's mom and unravel a mystery more powerful than the gods themselves.

Your Midweek newspaper series has FIVE pairs of luxury seat tickets to see Percy Jackson & The Lightning Thief – showing at cinemas from February 12 – courtesy of VUE cinema in Thanet plus FIVE packs of goodies up for grabs.

One MP is using the iPhone to stay in touch with his voters, but it won't catch on, says Gary Wright

Why most MPs aren't really ready for the superhighway

FANTASTIC story this week about MP Derek Wyatt, who has launched the iPhone* app to let his constituents stay in touch with him.

For those of you unfamiliar with the technological wizardry, it means simply that using your iPhone* (you all have one, don't you?) you can contact Sittingbourne's Mr Wyatt and interact any time.

I admire Mr Wyatt (or 'two pork pies and a Scotch egg' as he's affectionately known after the expenses debacle) for taking up the challenge of bringing new tech to the masses and I honestly wish him well in his quest to engage even more closely with his constituents.

Unfortunately, I forecast a rush to the Apple Store by the ten-or-so constituency nutters – that plague every MP – so they can back up their weekly letters to Mr Wyatt.

Even the biggest Luddite must have heard of the Apple app? If you believe the ads on telly the iPhone* can be made to do anything and, while it might not make the tea, there is probably an app that tells you how to make the perfect cuppa (and probably some information about blending).

But times really are a changin' and our MPs will do anything to get down with the kids and interact – whether they are Twittering (another social network craze for those too lazy to write more than 20 words at a time) or guesting on any TV show that claims viewers under 25.

There is a part of me, a very small part, that believes MPs really do wish to make the world a better place and to give a voice to their constituents no matter how marginalised.

Mr Wyatt (who already runs a good website) said: "I certainly hope that now people know it can be done, and that citizens want to engage in this way, my colleagues at home and abroad take this idea and make it even better for their constituents."

The app was written by public-sector digital agency Public Zone and is available free of charge from the Apple iTunes store.

Public Zone intends to roll out the MyMP app, which also integrates with Google Maps, to other MPs this month.

I wish Mr Wyatt well, but I foresee a slight problem with his fellow MPs.

Modern technology is pretty damn clever. The iPhone* is a very smart piece of kit. But because of their GPS abilities and the marvel of Google Maps (from satellite pictures right down to a picture of your front garden just from a postcode), the iPhone* can tell you exactly where you are. Oh yes, and it can tell everyone else exactly where you are.

Brilliant for parents who want to watch their kids (but who'd trust them with a 500-quid phone?), but not perhaps for your average MP.

Do they really want people to know exactly where they are every minute of the day?

I suspect not... far too risky, though I guess they could always leave their iPhone* in the House of Commons on answerphone while they slipped off to do other things.

* Other smartphones are cheaper: Google Nexus, Nokia N900, HTC Hero, but they haven't the hype (or such a successful App Store).

Homes should cash in by generating their own electricity

DEMAND for solar panels is set to soar after the Government announced a support scheme allowing householders to make an income from generating their own power, a renewable-energy researcher has predicted, writes Jenna Pudelek.

Kent Green Party member Steve Plater said he was planning to install a photovoltaic (PV) system on the roof of his Sevenoaks home that will convert solar radiation into enough electricity to meet three-quarters of his needs and save about £500 a year in energy bills.

Energy and climate change secretary Ed Miliband unveiled the new scheme this week; it will see 'feed-in tariffs' (FITs) paid to people, communities and businesses who generate electricity from solar panels, wind turbines or other renewable sources.

PV panels on household roofs will get a higher feed-in tariff and all will be up-rated with inflation each year.

Mr Plater said that after his system was installed he would make about £1,000 a year in payments as a result.

"Anyone who has got money sitting in a building society account would get a much better return by investing it in solar electricity," he said.

The Government said the sector would supply two per cent of the UK's electricity by 2020.

However, the Conservative Party and environmental campaigners have said the announcement lacks ambition.

Shadow energy and climate change secretary Greg Clark, the MP for Tunbridge Wells, said: "FITs are essential to allow decentralised energy to play a major role in our energy mix, but Labour's proposals lack ambition."

"Ministers should have been bolder with this scheme so more jobs could have been created and greater emissions reductions achieved."

Mr Plater, who gives talks about microgeneration of renewable energy across Kent, said: "It is really not ambitious enough – Germany already generates two per cent of its electricity from solar."

"The key point about renewable energy and energy efficiency is they go together and you can deploy them in hundreds of thousands of places very quickly."

"It is much quicker than building huge power stations – nuclear or coal takes years and years and they are not going to help us achieve climate-change targets by 2020."

"And we are the last major country in Europe to bring FITs in. Germany has had one since 2000."

However, Mr Plater thought that FITs would make renewable energy systems such as PV panels more attractive to householders.

"There are other reasons people want it, but clearly money is an important driver – being able to finance it matters and also feeling independent from energy companies.

"If you can generate three-quarters of electricity from your own roof you largely escape future price rises."

Initial installation costs were high, with panels costing £5,000 per kilowatt of capacity, he said.

People can receive grants from the Energy Saving Trust's low-carbon building scheme, but only until March this year. However, with the feed-in tariff income, and saving on electricity bills, it makes an attractive tax-free return on investment of eight to 10 per cent, which is better than most forms of savings account, the Kent Green Party said.

HEROES: The SSAFA is celebrating its 125th anniversary and wants your help to raise funds for ex-service personnel

125th birthday appeal to help Armed Forces

AN ORGANISATION that helps Armed Forces personnel is 125 years old this year.

The Soldiers, Sailors, Airmen and Families Association (SSAFA) helps those currently in the military and servicemen who have left and are in need.

The Kent branch has unveiled a special campaign – SSAFA 125 – which is being launched with a service of celebration at Westminster Abbey on Thursday, February 18.

Suresh Khanna, the county's director of public affairs for the group, said: "To mark our 125th anniversary we are launching Target 125 and asking everyone to 'Be a Hero' and raise £125 for SSAFA Forces Help in 2010."

Adapted

"Every contribution will help us to meet our pledge to support our troops and their families, now and for the rest of their lives."

"As the number of fatalities and serious injuries sustained in Afghanistan continues to rise, SSAFA's family-support groups are playing a vital role in helping relatives come to terms with loss and life-changing injuries."

"To date, 254 British servicemen and women have lost their lives in Afghanistan and this number increases by the day."

He said almost every parish in Kent had a connection with the Armed Forces so it was important to raise as much money as possible to provide service personnel with assistance.

He said: "Working in extremely dangerous and challenging circumstances, SSAFA Forces Help continues to provide our servicemen and women and their families with the practical support they need."

"Over the course of more than a century SSAFA has adapted and evolved to meet the changing needs of our Armed Forces."

The organisation was founded in 1885 to support troops and families of the second expeditionary force to Egypt. One of its current patrons is Prince Michael of Kent.

■ BY STEVE KNIGHT

As well as fatalities, many servicemen and women return home from war zones seriously wounded.

SSAFA's two recently-opened Norton Homes, in Birmingham and Ashstead, Surrey, allow injured troops to spend time with their loved ones away from the hospital environment where they are being treated, giving them the opportunity to do normal family things such as eat a meal together or simply watch a film.

David Culmer, chairman of the south-east London branch, said: "In Bromley and Bexley we are running events throughout the year – look out for our flag day on February 13 in supermarkets, our quiz night for Heroes on May 14, and our band concert in October."

To help, go to www.ssafa125.org.uk or phone the Kent county secretary on 01580 891507.

• A castle ball is being held at Lympne Castle on Saturday, February 27, to raise money for the Help For Heroes charity.

Party-goers can explore the entire castle and tuck into a curry feast and crêperie. There will also be a live jazz band followed by a disco in the castle's grand ballroom.

Being raffled and auctioned on the night will be a pair of Andy Murray-signed shorts, artwork signed by the Kaiser Chiefs and signed CDs from Tom Jones, Sting and The Stereophonics, plus other celebrity items.

The chairy has donated more than £23 million to help servicemen and women since its conception.

Tickets cost £39 and include hot buffet, entertainment and mulled wine on arrival.

Tickets can be bought by phoning 01496 860296.

TALK TIME

ANDY SCOTT-CLARK

The deputy director of public health talks about his job and how health chiefs decide on what to spend their £1.2 billion budget

Tell us a little bit about yourself

I have worked in public health since 1996. I was appointed director of public health for Swale Primary Care Trust in 2002 and took over the role of deputy director of public health for NHS Eastern and Coastal Kent on its inception on October 1, 2006.

I have a masters degree in public health and am listed on the UK public health register. I was born in New Zealand and I trained as a pharmacist in Wellington. I came to England in 1986 and, like many Kiwis, never made it back.

What's the population, geographical area and budget of NHS Eastern and Coastal?

The population of NHS Eastern and Coastal Kent is some 710,000, covering the districts of Ashford, Canterbury, Dover, Shepway, Swale and Thanet. We have a budget of more than £1.2 billion and it's our job to work closely with the public and patients to identify their health needs.

How do you prioritise what's important for each area?

Our key priorities for the next five years include breaking the cycle of inequalities, revolutionising services for older people, tackling the key killers of vascular disease, cancer and respiratory disease, promoting well-being and good mental health and transforming the life chances of disadvantaged people.

What's the top priority at the moment?

Our top priority is currently the management of what could be a long and difficult winter.

Drab town leaves us nowhere to go

I WENT shopping in Dover, but how drab and terrible it looks with all the closed shops. Now the public toilets are being closed because of cost.

Where do the authorities expect older people or those with small children to go?

Surely there should be more toilets, not fewer. I used to love the town but will not shop there now.

Mrs D Sutton
Sandwich

Council attitude is an inconvenience

THE arrogance of Dover District Council in closing two public toilets without warning or consultation was no surprise.

For more than 25 years I have dealt with councils all over Kent. There was once a strong sense of public service, but this is now history and local government is a shadow of its former self.

It exists largely to serve itself, with insular, self-righteous officers who are ignorant of what goes on outside their offices.

Councillors talk of regeneration but practise only degeneration.

If a council cannot run public toilets, what chance is there of improvement in anything else?

Councillors are not standing up for the public interest.

The figure for running Dover's toilets at almost £80,000 a year demonstrates gross waste and incompetence in itself. The toilets could be run for a third of that if cleaners were employed direct.

Dover Town Council should have acted in the public interest at once - but it prefers to talk. Dover needs action, not excuses about why there is no action.

If I were the mayor I would have offered immediately to keep the two toilets for the disabled going as a priority.

They only need a daily check to ensure they are safe and clean.

Councils spend too much on buildings and salaries. Dover Town Council has a large income and needs to do more than arrange social events to justify its existence.

Here is an opportunity to do something of real assistance for Dover, but I am pessimistic as Dover Town Council and Dover District Council are as bad as each other.

Dover needs leadership, with people of vision and some common sense, but I see no sign of it as officers and elected representatives see the price of everything and the value of nothing.

Dover has become a lawless and neglected place. It needs a dose of old-fashioned public service above self-interest and petty party politics, but I don't think we have people with such qualities to lead us and the decline will continue, which is so sad.

Let's keep Queen's crucial port of call

THE most important port of HM Queen Elizabeth II in her monarchy is being sold off to foreigners for money - the most busy passenger port in the world.

Yet HM Queen Elizabeth II's Parliament, the House of Lords and the House of Commons can, on the spur of the moment, give away huge amounts of taxpayers' money to 'save' the banks, give to worldwide calamities and fund wars in Iraq and Afghanistan.

Yet to develop for the future wealth of the Queen - nothing. That is all before the

Is it because of going unnoticed in a large school or a large class size?

Is your child lacking the confidence to flourish?

At Dover College, we are as keen as any other school to cater for the most able pupils and do it well. However, our recent inspection highlighted our great ability as a school to enable our more average pupils to achieve far better than their potential suggested on entry. By offering boys and girls timely affirmation and appropriate challenges in a caring environment, many of them surprise their parents and, more importantly, themselves with their achievements.

Pupils can join Dover College at any time of the year if there is a place available.

contemptible scandal of MPs' and Lords' unaccountable and tax-free expenses.

Also think of the millions of pounds taken by bankers in their bonuses from customers' and taxpayers' pockets – yet none for the Port of Dover.

That is the legacy you are leaving for your children, grandchildren and future generations.

Think! The Thatcher outfit sold off the public utilities for money "to give more competitive services, cheaper prices and more efficient services".

London's water, including that of Buckingham Palace, Parliament and the BBC, is so lucrative that the Germans would not sell it on to the Australians.

Foreign-owned UK electricity prices are so high that by switching from UK to French electricity the Channel Tunnel paid for that change of engineering in one year.

That is before you get to gas and railways.

Talking to people here, as well as to newspapers, the National Trust, radio and TV, unlike in France, very few people have heard of or are aware of the sale.

Just think: French ships use Dover port, P&O ships have been sold to the Arabs, and one day Dover port quay could be sold to foreigners.

Dover would no longer be British, which makes 'There will be blue birds over the White Cliffs of Dover; just you wait and see' quite a lot of balderdash.

K6 admirers want to ring the changes

OUR campaign is concerned at the neglected, sad state of many 'listed' K6 telephone kiosks in east Kent.

One of these is in Dover, overlooking the Eastern Docks.

All the faults and damage have been reported to BT over a two-year period, but these have still not been rectified.

This year is the 75th anniversary of the K6 kiosk, which was created in 1935 to celebrate the silver jubilee of King George V.

We have sent a list of neglected 'listed' K6s to BT Payphones to inform it that we will carry out these repairs in the spring if it continues to refuse to do so.

This would highlight its neglect and indifference in this special year towards our famous British icon.

The K6 overlooking Dover's Eastern Docks is of particular concern to us as thousands of people see its sad, neglected state as they enter Britain.

If BT doesn't act, we shall do so in the public interest.

Dover District Council refuses to apply pressure to BT to make this 'listed' structure good.

Some bad councils are good in their heritage – sadly Dover District Council does not value its heritage even in such sensitive locations.

Campaign To Save The K6 Jubilee Kiosk

UK funding will pay for French fancy

IF the truth is known, the cash that Calais is using to upgrade facilities for the Olympics ('Cheeky Calais keen to cash in', last week's Yourdover) is not from local money, but from the £700million-plus allocated to the Nord Pas de Calais region from European Union funding for 2007-2013.

As British taxpayers provide the bulk of all the EU's annual spending money, we are once again giving money outside of this country when it is desperately needed here.

It is time the electorate put a final stop to this madness.

Take a trip to Toytown

Noddy and Big Ears are joined by all their friends for a big party, but naughty Sly and Gobbo have other plans

NODDY

Various dates
Various venues

PAY a visit to Toy Town in the company of a children's favourite when Noddy returns to Kent.

Children all over the county have the chance to see the cheeky young chap and all his friends on stage in this colourful and exciting stage show.

With lots of songs and dances for the audience to join in, this is a fun-packed production for children of all ages. The tour also coincides with the 60th anniversary of Enid Blyton's enduringly popular creation.

It is the start of an exciting day in Toy Town because there is a special event lined up for the residents. Noddy and Tessie Bear are planning a sing-along, dance-along party.

The only people who are not welcome are the two naughty goblins, Sly and Gobbo, who cannot be trusted to behave well and not try to spoil everyone's enjoyment.

Armed with the Sound Sucker, another bizarre machine from Goblin Gizmos, the naughty pair set out to ruin the party. But their wicked plans could yet be thwarted by Noddy, who is determined to keep an eye on the goblins and make sure the day is not spoiled.

All the popular residents of Toy Town appear in the 90-minute show, including Mr Plod, Whiz the Robot, Bumpy Dog and Noddy's best friend, Big Ears. Together they invite all the children to take part in a fun-filled adventure that provides a great introduction to live theatre.

Noddy made his first appearance in 1949 and became an icon of children's literature, providing the perfect way for youngsters to discover Blyton's writing. During the 20-year period between his creation and Blyton's death, 154 books featuring Noddy were produced and there was a wealth of Noddy merchandise for fans to buy, from Noddy toothbrushes and soap to nightdresses and bedside lights.

The Noddy Live show can be seen at the Central Theatre, Chatham, on Sunday, February 21; the Leas Cliff Hall, Folkestone, on Monday, April 12, and the Woodville Halls, Gravesend on Thursday, June 3.

PACK OF LIES

Wednesday, February 17
Tower Theatre, Folkestone

AN ORDINARY family faces the effects of espionage in the gripping play, Pack of Lies.

Following the success of this year's pantomime, FHODS presents Hugh Whitmore's compelling story that explores how everyday people cope when their lives are turned upside down.

First seen in the BBC's Play of the Month series, the story was called Act of Betrayal and was more of a documentary drama. But the author decided to create a longer version that continues to grip audiences, more than 25 years after it was first staged.

When an ordinary family discover that their best friends have been spying for the Russians, they are forced to live with the knowledge while investigations take place and to deal with the fact that they are equally guilty of an act of betrayal.

The play was first performed by FHODS more than 20 years ago, but remains as dramatic and relevant today as it was in the 1980s.

Tickets are £9/£8 from the box office on 01303 223925.

SIMPLE SIMON

Wednesday, February 17
Winter Gardens, Margate

FIND out how Jack got on after he killed the giant in the latest family show from Simple Simon.

Small children and their families will be captivated by the exploits of Simple Simon and his pet cat Tommy as they come to the aid of Jack, Jill and Daisy the Cow. Just when they thought they were safe from giants, Blunderbore arrives to wreak revenge on Jack for killing his wicked brother and giving away all the gold.

Will Jack have to climb the beanstalk once again and defeat another giant, or will Blunderbore and his henchman Igor prove too powerful this time? Fairy Stardust does her best to help, but Simple Simon and Tommy must try to help Jack save the day.

Packed with music and comedy, the show also features stage spots in which children from the audience try to win small prizes by taking part in games and songs.

The show starts at 2.30pm and tickets cost £5. To book, call 01843 296111/292795 or visit www.margatewintergardens.co.uk.

EDEN NIGHTS DANCING

Sunday, March 7
Leas Cliff Hall, Folkestone

THE magic and grace of dance comes to Shepway in spectacular style next month.

Eden Nights Dancing and Events promises a night of sizzling performances by champion dancers and world-class rising stars, presented by international dance host Paul Eden. There will also be an unmissable finale from Strictly Come Dancing favourites, Vincent and Flavia.

The popular couple is sure to dazzle the audience with their personal performance and hot chemistry that has delighted viewers of the BBC dance show. Their appearance will make the perfect end to an evening of dance that captures the beauty of Latin and ballroom.

From the cheeky Cha Cha to the rousing rumba, the show presents classic dances to an international quality and promises a jive that makes audiences want to get up and dance. Spend an evening in the company of world-class dancers as they trip the light fantastic in unforgettable style.

The show starts at 8.30pm and tickets cost £25. Book at www.leascliffhall.org.uk or call the box office on 0844 847 1776.

Two for price of one as Cera tackles double role

■ BY KATE WHITING

YOUTH In Revolt stars one of Hollywood's up-and-coming stars in Michael Cera, who's made his name through a string of geeky roles in Juno, Superbad and last year's Nick And Norah's Infinite Playlist.

At 21, Cera is no newcomer to the big screen – he's been acting since he was nine – but it was his role as High School student father Paulie Bleeker in Juno that made critics take notice. He was even nominated last year for the Bafta Orange Rising Star Award.

In Youth In Revolt, he plays strait-laced teen Nick Twisp, who has a taste for the finer things in life like Sinatra and Fellini.

On a family holiday, he falls for free-spirited Sheeni who eggs him on to create a rebellious French alter ego: Francois. Sporting a moustache and smoking, Francois takes Nick in an outrageous new direction, as he tries to win Sheeni's love.

Canadian Cera had long been a fan of author C.D. Payne, who wrote the book Youth In Revolt: The Journals Of Nick Twisp, on which the film is based, and was signed up to the project before Juno and Superbad even hit our screens.

"The book is really funny. It's got a really unique voice and it's gigantic, it takes months to read if you're a slow reader. I was around the age of Nick when I read it and I completely related to it," says Cera, with a half-smile.

"I related to the agony of not knowing what's going on and being obsessed with a girl and not having any control, which Payne wrote really perfectly."

ALTER EGO: Michael Cera as French Francois

When Nick meets Sheeni, he's feeling completely disillusioned about his mundane existence. Cera explains: "Nick doesn't have a great home life. His parents are divorced, his mother has an idiot boyfriend and his life is stagnant. He meets this girl who blows his mind and he feels he has to hang on to her."

Cera reportedly split from his actress girlfriend Charlyne Yi last summer after they co-starred in indie project Paper Heart. He says he can relate to the 'torment' Nick suffers through his love for the mysterious Sheeni.

"You never know what she feels about you or what she's really thinking. She's such a puzzle. That's really what I loved about the character. She's so well-depicted in the book."

Despite having to play two very different characters in the same film, Cera insists he didn't find this difficult. In fact, he loved the opportunity to play a naughty version of Nick.

"It was just a lot of fun to play. I wouldn't say it was hard, except for the technical tricks of it. I can't think of any challenges, except for trying to figure out how to play Francois initially, and what the voice was going to be like."

Hip-hop title up for grabs, and ShyChlo is in running

■ BY SIMON ROBINSON

WHEN grime star Lady Sovereign entered the Big Brother house last month she left her 'queen of UK hip-hop' title and arguably her credibility at the door.

Pretenders to the throne are now intent on climbing the charts and claiming her crown.

One such would-be queen is Canterbury MC/writer/producer ShyChlo.

The 22-year-old has drawn the interest of a number of industry movers and shakers since bursting on to the live scene in 2008 and looks certain to draw more attention with the release of her debut single Mental Confusion later this year.

ShyChlo said her success was down to her lyrics, which go beyond the tired hip-hop subjects of guns and violence.

"I just write and say what I feel, going beyond the glitz and glamour of the stereotypical 'rags to riches' hip-hop, and focusing on issues like the struggles and peer pressures of today's youth – politics, religion and personal insecurities."

ShyChlo is something of a genre merger, drawing influences from UK hip-hop, rock, punk and funk.

It's this fusion that saw new independent record label Flickfinger Records sign up the young artist.

Co-founder Kieron Corcoran said: "ShyChlo has a very clever mix of UK hip-hop, rock and other musical styles."

"Her sound isn't affected by the US hip-hop scene and so it's unique."

LINE-UP: MC Devlin (above) and rapper XO Man (right) will be supporting ShyChlo (left) at the Hazlitt Theatre this weekend

"She's got a lot of great feedback through the Myspace page and the fanbase is growing really quickly."

ShyChlo will perform at the Hazlitt Theatre, Maidstone, on Friday, backed by her four-piece band.

Support on the night comes from Hugo Urban Rules-winning rapper XO Man and Dagenham-born grime MC Devlin.

YOUR TV REVIEW

■ BY TOM BETTS

COMING OF AGE BBC Three, 10.30pm, Tuesday

IF ever there was a TV show from which not to take a comedic lead, then it's the never-not-appalling mess that is Two Pints Of Lager And A Packet Of Crisps.

Despite being one of the least funny sit-coms ever made it has now run for eight series, proving that someone out there must be watching it.

I didn't think it was possible for a show to be less funny or more moronic until I saw Coming Of Age, the latest BBC Three laugh-free zone, which is undeniably influenced by its bigger brother.

Here we meet our main characters – three lads and two girls who attend the local sixth-form college.

They dress like they've been sponsored by Topshop and talk as if they have been locked in a room listening to Fearnie Cotton since the day they were born.

They think of little else but who's going out with whom, when they are next getting drunk, and, erm... no, actually, that's it.

One recent episode had one of the female leads, a frizzy-haired girl whose name I have blocked out through trauma, boasting of relieving herself in a pub car park because the toilets were locked or blocked.

The pub, by the way, was called The Beaver (geddit?!).

I hate this show – it makes me wonder why I am alive.

It is a terrible waste of time and may well have been written by 12-year-olds on their school lunch break between games of Pokemon and mouthfuls of cheese strings.

Yet, as much as I hate it, strangely I find myself drawn in.

I wonder if one day it will ever

NO LAUGHING MATTER: Joe Tracini plays DK in BBC Three's so-called sit-com Coming of Age

make me laugh, or if I'll ever see the point, or if a plotline will involve any kind of imagination other than the bleedin' obvious.

Three of the characters are just plain annoying, but they seem like two of the screen's great creations when compared with one of the others.

Darren, or DK, is an imbecile of the very highest order.

He's the kind of tracksuited village idiot who goes into a trance when somebody mentions 'boobs' or 'bum' and is what makes the whole sorry affair plunge through the bottom of the barrel and start tunnelling for Australia with a JCB.

I read that the first series of this abomination is available on DVD.

I'm planning to buy a copy and blow it up with TNT.

YOUR WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

BY RUSSELL GRANT

AQUARIUS (Jan 21-Feb 19)
YOU'LL get a divine opportunity to put your expertise to work this week. If you play your cards right you could become a renowned expert in your field. You have to admit that it will be lovely having your pick of job offers. A best friend or colleague may be jealous of your success.

TAURUS (Apr 21-May 21)
YOU could be handed some serious work responsibilities. Although these tasks fall outside of your normal job description, give them a whirl anyway. Your boss will be impressed by your versatility. If you are unemployed, apply for jobs in an entirely new industry.

Tenerife is your paradise found

BY HANNAH STEPHENSON

TENERIFE is known as a tourist hot spot sullied by over-development and bad behaviour by visitors.

The island, however, wants a new reputation to lure discerning travellers to its sun-kissed shores.

The largest of the Canary Islands off the coast of north-west Africa, this Spanish isle has a temperate climate year round, rivalling destinations like Dubai and The Gambia for weather, with shorter flights from Britain.

A smattering of exclusive hotels is emerging on the west coast, far from the all-night partying of Playa de las Americas and neighbouring Los Cristianos, where apartments go so far inland they swamp the surrounding hills.

Away from all that is the five-star Sensatori Resort on the outskirts of the village of Alcala, further up the coast, around 10 minutes' drive from the dramatic cliffs of Los Gigantes in the west.

It's here that I discovered a true taste of paradise, taking in the stunning 260m infinity pool, the largest in Europe, the shimmering Atlantic and the neighbouring island of La Gomera.

At Sensatori, the stunning rooms, marble flooring, sparkling chandeliers, fountains, designer decor and dramatic sculptures can take your breath away.

Bag a villa in its Red Level area and you get a butler and private pool within your tropical garden, and an outdoor double bed under a thatched canopy.

At the Sensatori's Michelin-starred Calima restaurant, where chef Dani Garcia is a bit of a celebrity, our 12-course taster menu began with delicious dry-ice cocktails and included delicacies such as foie gras, oysters and truffle cake, accompanied by fine wines, some produced locally.

But it's not only the hotels that are falling over backwards to spruce up this island.

Connection

Last year, Siam Park, a water park, opened in the south, boasting the biggest artificial waves in the world at nearly 10ft high. Its surrounding beach is created with tons of silky white sand imported from Portugal.

We hired a private cabana with in the park, with its own balcony overlooking the wave pool, to allow us the luxury of a safe TV, DVD and Wi-Fi connection, plus mini-bar, comfortable loungers and an outside shower. If you want a similar package for four, including entrance, fast-track queuing and limited all-inclusive deal in restaurants and bars, it costs a cool 400 euros (£360).

Ecological measures are also being stepped up to save what is left of Tenerife's natural beauty.

Nearly a decade ago, virtually anyone could – and did – take a boat from Los Cristianos to watch whales and dolphins. Many beautiful creatures were surrounded by boats, with tourists happily snapping away.

LAP OF LUXURY: Enjoy some sun-kissed serenity at the Sensatori Resort near Alcala

Under new rules, boats must be licensed and are carefully monitored to stop whales and dolphins from becoming distressed. The marine guide on our charter said that this had driven away unscrupulous operators.

Tenerife is still home to all-night party-goers, English pubs and and bacon-and-eggs breakfasts after a heavy night.

But if all you want is peace, quiet and serenity in the ultimate tropical setting all year, it may be closer than you ever imagined.

PROPERTY NEWS

SUCCESS: Hillreed has sold nearly all its properties

Off-plan property sales are through the roof

THERE is nothing a builder likes more than to sell a home before it's actually built, and that's exactly what Hillreed is currently enjoying at Greenway, Kings Hill, near Maidstone.

Dean Markall, sales and marketing director at Hillreed, said: "Such is the desire to purchase property, most of the homes in our 'Farmyard complex' at Greenway, are reserved or sold and that is before we have even got the roofs on."

"Buying off plan enables astute buyers to hold the prices at 2009 levels which make financial sense."

"The building societies are still reporting house prices rising month on month, albeit slowly over November, but nevertheless they are on an upward trajectory. We anticipate a healthy market in 2010 which is great news for those who have already invested in bricks and mortar."

Kent to get extra help to prevent repossessions

A KENT MP has welcomed news of extra government help for those facing repossession.

South Thanet Labour member Dr Steve Ladyman said he was pleased about the extra help to tackle house repossession in Thanet.

John Healey, minister for housing said Thanet is among 56 repossession hot spot areas in the UK being targeted for extra help.

Dr Ladyman said: "I am delighted the minister has recognised the need for extra help for Thanet. Thousands of people have already been helped by the Government at this difficult time but there are still people in Thanet having trouble keeping up the mortgage and good, independent advice is vital for them."

Others areas in Kent to benefit are Dartford, Gravesham and Medway.

Nearly 88,000 people have gone to www.direct.gov.uk/mortgagehelp since its launch in September, over 26,000 of whom have used it to develop personal action plans tailored to their individual circumstances.

THE FRENCH IDYLL: For many British people the typical rustic French farmhouse remains at the top of their list when they are looking to invest or live in a home abroad

What you should know about buying abroad

■ BY CHRIS MURPHY

KENT'S potential investors in overseas properties will do well to check out homes in France and Italy this year as two of the most stable markets.

The National Association of Estate Agents International said that, as always, any potential profits to be made will be down to the strength of sterling.

It said purchasers should look at what it called 'less risky' investments and in particular towards the more stable markets such as France and Italy.

But for the very best bargains, buyers should try Spain or Turkey, where the former has seen spectacular falls in property prices during the past 18 months.

But the association predicts prices will remain stable in the first quarter of 2010, so purchasers should consider making cash offers by March to secure a bargain in any of these countries.

And experts predict the balance of supply and demand will stabilise once house prices pick up and the pound strengthens against the euro.

Linda Travella, spokeswoman on Italy at NAEA International said: "After a slow start to the year, the last quarter of 2009 saw sales and interest returning to the international market, with Italy being considered a safer investment than many other markets around the world."

"As always, the strength of the pound will have a significant bearing on the quality and quantity of sales, and this year it looks to stay at the same strength."

"Even though the UK appears to have fallen behind other economies in the race out of recession and economic recovery, sterling has held pretty firm against the single European currency, trading two to three cents either side of 1.10 during the second half of last year."

"For the first quarter of 2010 the number of international buyers is expected to remain low and therefore offers are more likely to be accepted making it a very good time to purchase an overseas property."

"However by late spring, property prices are expected to increase by three to five per cent. Key areas to invest in include Tuscany, Le Marche and the Lakes of Maggiore and Garda, where good deals can be found if you buy sensibly."

And Des Rowson, spokesman on Spain, added: "It has seen a difficult 12 months on the sales front as buyers have been particularly reticent about purchasing during an economic downturn."

"Bargains are available but remember, price reflects position and quality. Unfortunately the coming year will not change too much until we see the pound strengthening and clients accepting that the registered agents do know what purchasers are prepared to pay."

Top 10 tips for buying abroad from www.mortgages.co.uk

- Never sign a contract that you do not understand (for example - if it is in a foreign language).
- Seek specialist advice from independent solicitors, architects and surveyors who know the country's laws.
- Ensure you do not inherit a debt on the property before you purchase, which a solicitor should be able to check - some developers borrow money against the plot to raise finance.
- Always give yourself a 'cooling off' period if you see a 'must-have property' and are tempted to put down a deposit.
- If you are arranging finance on the property, ensure in any contract and you have an 'opt-out clause' if a loan is not agreed.
- Try to arrange your mortgage finance 'in principle', before agreeing to purchase the property or pay a deposit.
- Arrange your mortgage in the currency that you earn in where possible, unless you'll receive rental in local currency.
- Think about combining your cash with friends or family: it could bring a villa with pool within your financial reach.
- Check with the estate agent or vendor that you are aware of the costs charged by the legal and government authorities for purchasing a property. Remember that bills do not end at the asking price
- Open a bank account in your chosen country and ensure you get a Certificate of Importation for the money you bring in from your home country. Set up standing orders in a local bank account to meet bills and taxes. Failure in some countries will land you in court.

MOTORS NEWS

Black Edition marks 40 years on for 'Z' legend

NISSAN is celebrating 40 years of its legendary 'Z' sports car series with a Black Edition of the current standard bearer, the 370Z.

It is the latest in a line started by the then Datsun 240Z and still uses the classic rear-wheel drive layout preferred for sports cars. The Black Edition (from £33,645) is available to order now, in coupé form only, for April delivery.

It features unique red leather and suede interior with embossed 40th Anniversary logo seats and other premium features.

Sportage ready to step from RAV4's shadow

IF Kia's current Sportage is seen as a cut-price alternative to the increasingly expensive Toyota RAV4, its forthcoming replacement deserves recognition as a smart new model in its own right.

It is a fresh and sporty design blending the key features of a sports utility vehicle – commanding driving position and raised ground clearance.

The Korean marque says the new Sportage will arrive latter this year with a "highly competitive diesel and petrol engine line-up".

Skoda continues to help you save on a new buy

SKODA has extended its 'No-VAT' offer across all Octavia, Fabia and Roomster models, with a potential saving of up to £3,400. Instead of closing at the end of January, this deal continues with orders up to 31 March.

It means the popular Fabia supermini still costs from just £7,870 – saving up to £2,100 and including the eco-friendly Greenline (pictured) – while the award-winning Octavia range that played a major role in the marque's revival is available from just £10,526.

A CHANGE FOR THE BETTER: Mazda has opted for a lighter and lower design rather than premium-priced 'eco' models epitomised by their smart tax saving new-look Mazda3

Mazda's 'lighter and lower' philosophy is looking good the nimbleness of the car. So, with a typically crisp Mazda gearshift and direct steering plus a more than adequate 109bhp under the bonnet, this is a company or private buy that is easy to live with in all situations.

It cannot quite match the latest VW Golf for refinement, but is a more cost-effective option, to be judged more against the ubiquitous Ford Focus and latest Vauxhall Astra.

It looks leaner and more muscular than its rather frumpy predecessor and the cabin echoes the impressive Mazda6 in layout, style and quality, though rear legroom is only average for the sector.

Having driven most engines in the line-up now, test driving the well-equipped TS2 version of the 'cooking' diesel confirmed it as the 'go to' model for most buyers. By comparison, the 105bhp 1.6-litre petrol needs a lot of gearshifting to make progress, though still a rewarding drive.

For those who like the look of the '3', but crave more thrills, Mazda has also just launched the MPS hot hatch version (£21,500).

Arriving within months of the mainstream line-up this 257bhp turbocharged 2.3-litre petrol model can hit 62mph in just 6.1 seconds and wears a bodykit to complement its good looks.

USED CAR ROUND-UP: OUR PICK FROM A KEY SECTOR

SLASH YOUR MOTORING BUDGET

carsforkent.co.uk

EVERYONE wants to slash their motoring budget and perhaps downsize too, but there's no need to buy new, even if used prices on top economy cars have boomed as 'gas guzzler' values went bust. Neither must you give up on style; admittedly, our choice here includes a couple of real motoring 'scrooge' options even though full of character, but BMW's Mini D can look after your wallet and street cred for a little more outlay upfront – you can be meaner and greener while making others green with envy

FIAT PANDA

FIAT'S five-door city car shows that a highly space-efficient interior does not have to result in a utilitarian exterior. The compact Italian is also decent to drive, cheap to insure and costs peanuts to run. The original Panda of the 1980s was also cheap and cheerful, but didn't feature the cutting-edge technology and better build of its modern day counterpart. A lively turbodiesel – averaging more than 65mpg – and a rugged little 4x4 option only add to the Panda's attractions.

PEUGEOT 107

PEUGEOT'S smallest model is the best-seller of a joint venture three and five-door city car project that also spawned the Toyota Aygo and Citroën C1. All come from the same production line in the Czech Republic and, with minor styling tweaks, are modern, stylish, cheap to run and reliable. Launch prices were not as cheap as expected, but robust new car sales and second-hand values indicate that the public is willing to pay to save money and the planet.

MINI D

USED values for the frugal yet lively diesel version of BMW's reborn Mini are steep, but the rewards are worth it; the car drives well, oozes class, will save money while you run it and be worth more when you sell. The downside is a relatively cramped interior in comparison with its exterior – the antithesis of its all-British forebear – and rarity when buying. A late 'Mark II' petrol version with BMW's eco-friendly 'Efficient Dynamics' package is a possible alternative though.

Walmer Science College is a vibrant community school for students 11-19 catering for 800 students of all abilities. We also have a Dyslexia Unit, which is able to offer up to four places in each year group for students in the local area. The Dyslexia Unit is housed in purpose built accommodation which was completed in 2006. Walmer Science College is a good school with outstanding features (Ofsted 2007).

Head of Dyslexia Department

Mainscale plus TLR 2B - £2,478 AND SEN

Responsibility Payment - £1,956

Required for 1st September 2010

The successful applicant will have experience of supporting students with dyslexia within mainstream lessons and teaching students with dyslexia of secondary school age literacy skills. Having undergone training in dyslexia, you will hold an appropriate qualification, be computer literate and have experience of line management whilst providing CPD sessions for staff.

You will have excellent communication, negotiation, organisational and interpersonal skills with a vision for the future development of the unit; incorporating its role as the Lead School for Dyslexia in the area, which will involve outreach provision.

It would be desirable if you have undergone training in Speech and Language Disorders or are willing to undertake such training.

Application forms and further details are available from the school.

DRIVING FORCE: Dover ran out easy winners over Thanet

Routine win continues Sharks' impressive run

THE gap at the top of London 1 South is now just one point after Dover strolled to a derby victory over Thanet and turned up the heat on leaders Gravesend.

Having twice been postponed, the fixture finally got underway with Dover playing down the Crabble slope, although it was Wanderers who made the brighter start.

Missing Ben Murray and captain Martyn Beaumont, the Sharks were forced to defend doggedly in the early stages, but they broke the shackles when Blair Charge kicked a 12th-minute penalty to open the scoring.

The hosts then scored a superb try to move

RUGBY

Dover 24 Thanet Wanderers 3

8-0 in front as Nick Ford and Ricky Mackintosh spread the ball to set up Lee Tonks, who crashed over.

Charge missed the conversion and Dover then became overly static, making too many basic errors, although their defence remained as firm as ever and the lead was still eight points at the interval.

Thanet kicked a penalty early in the second-half, but that was to be the only time they troubled the scoreboard, with Dover controlling the remainder of proceedings.

Flanker Buster Collins raced through from the Thanet 22 to score in the 61st minute, with Charge not only converting, but adding three further penalties to see Dover comfortably over the line.

Dover have now won 13 consecutive games and could go top with a win at home to Sidcup on Saturday.

Sidcup sit fourth in the division and have been in good form of late, so Dover's title credentials will receive another stern test.

FOOTBALL

Broken leg leads to match abandoned

Deal Town A Sevenoaks Town A

DEAL Town and Sevenoaks Town will meet again this weekend to replay their Kent Senior Trophy quarter-final following the abandonment of last Saturday's game at the Oatmor-Harris Stadium.

Deal's Josh Davidson left the ground in an ambulance after suffering an horrific double leg fracture, thanks to a challenge which merited the afternoon's third red card.

With the game less than half an hour old, both sides had already been reduced to ten men with Roy Godden departing for his part in an off-the-ball incident which also saw the visitors lose Tony Webb.

As the sides waited for a corner to be delivered, Webb appeared to elbow Godden, who in turn stamped on Webb, leaving referee Kevin Welsh no option but to dismiss the pair.

Up to that point, the game had failed to spark as both sides cancelled each other out, but the afternoon was suddenly soured as Sevenoaks's Joe Minter launched himself at Davidson, who was left in agony on the floor.

Minter was shown a straight red card and the crack of Davidson's bones was heard around the ground.

Even once the ambulance had arrived to take him to Margate Hospital, paramedics took a further 30 minutes to ensure no further damage was done.

Initial fears that the blood circulation to Davidson's feet would be cut off were soon eased, but the defender remains in hospital and is certain to face a lengthy spell on the sidelines.

Both sides are already playing catch-up on those around them and next Saturday's scheduled league fixtures have now been switched to accommodate the cup tie.

Deal were in action last night as they entertained Faversham Town in the Kent League, looking to extend their five-game unbeaten run. Log on to www.yourdeal.co.uk for match details.

FOOTBALL

Bath City 0

Dover Athletic 0

DOVER boss Andy Hessenthaler felt his side missed a chance to boost their play-off hopes after Saturday's goalless draw at high-flying Bath City.

The Whites dominated the possession and created the majority of the chances, but were unable to find the cutting edge needed to find the net.

Shaun Welford skewed an early header wide and that was followed by Olly Schulz's goal-bound header which was cleared off the line by Chris Holland. Goalkeeper Ross Flitney was rarely troubled in the first-half and Dover felt hard done by having not taken a lead into the break.

Bath made a better start to the second-half and Danny Walder's last minute goal-saving tackle managed to keep the score at 0-0.

The visitors responded well and striker Adam Birchall was twice denied by goalkeeper Ryan Robinson. Hakeem Adelakun and Wallis both forced impressive saves from Robinson, as a dominant Dover had to settle for a point. The draw means Dover remain third in the league.

Hessenthaler said: "I think looking at the game it was a missed chance for us as we dominated the game. We had plenty of chances, but we just couldn't put them away.

"Adam Birchall had two great chances, but he just couldn't finish them. On the whole though it is a good result when you look at Bath's home record. They have managed to beat Woking and we more than matched them."

The Dover boss handed debuts to two new loan signings, central defender Daniel Leach and right-sided player Michael Abnett and was impressed with their performances.

The pair have agreed to one-month loan deals at Crabble with Leach joining from League Two side Barnet and Abnett coming from

Dover starting XI

Subs used: Adelakun (Walder 62), Rogers (Hill 74), Abnett (Birchall 74)

Championship side Crystal Palace. Dover have been trying to sign Leach for some time and could extend his deal if he continues to impress.

Hessenthaler said: "Both of them did very well. We needed cover with the injuries we've got at the club. You could tell Leach is a class act the moment the game began. At the moment it is only a month loan, but I would like to extend it. It all depends on Barnet manager Ian Hendon and whether he needs him."

Elsewhere at the club, central defender Craig Cloke has joined Ryman South side Ashford Town on a one-month loan in a bid to aid his recovery from injury.

Cugley philosophical over Invicta's off-field setback

FOOTBALL

BY DAVID PRITCHARD

Walton Casuals 0

Folkestone Invicta 1

J Everitt 86

DESPITE a points penalty hanging over their heads it was business as usual for Folkestone Invicta's players on Saturday as James Everitt's late goal secured a hard-fought win at Walton Casuals.

An arrangement with creditors was formally agreed by Invicta's shareholders at a meeting on Friday, which gives the club some stability off the pitch.

The downside is the inevitable points penalty for briefly going into administration which, when it is confirmed, will wipe out the Seaside's lead at the top of the Ryman South.

Invicta boss Neil Cugley was frustrated to see the squad's hard work eroded, but pointed out it could have been much worse.

He said: "It's a shame, we're bitterly disappointed to have ten points taken away from us. "Like all these things the wrong people get punished – the players, the fans and the coaching staff – who have done nothing incorrect.

"It was very pleasing to win on Saturday because the players knew the situation. Nothing's changed, we'll just target as many points as we can get before the end of the season.

"In some ways I'm pleased because we can carry on long term. The fear was starting all over again in the Kent League so I suppose we shouldn't be too disappointed.

Invicta's eighth 1-0 win of the season was ground out against a struggling Casuals side which showed little attacking intent, seeking instead to stifle the visitors.

Both goalkeepers were busy in the first-half without over-extending themselves.

The sum of Invicta's efforts before the break were two shots from Simon Austin which failed to trouble Walton stopper Chico Ramos.

Folkestone's Jack Delo made one smart save to keep the scores level at the start of the second-half, before James Everitt hit the woodwork with a shot from the edge of the box.

The striker finally broke the deadlock four minutes from time, tapping home after Frankie Chappell headed Jimmy Jackson's free-kick back across goal.

Lee Spiller also made a late substitute appearance, his first since recovering from a long-term knee injury, to add vital strength in depth to Invicta's slender squad.

Cugley's side visited fellow promotion hopefuls Godalming Town last night, log on to www.your-shepway.co.uk for the details.

FOLKESTONE romped into the regional semi-finals of the Senior Vase with an impeccable display against fellow London 3 South East side Whitstable.

Lee Jeffery's side marched on even when reduced to 11 men at one stage, running in nine tries without conceding a single point.

The game's first score came quickly when Joe Hull disrupted a Whitstable scrum on their five-metre line, winning the ball back and finding Scott Stewart who dived over.

Minutes later the score was doubled in similar fashion, breaking up a Whitstable scrum, with Adam Tolman striding over.

Teenager Chris Petley, who was outstanding all afternoon, added the conversion.

The hosts were quickly out of sight with a third try. Jon Mapp bulldozed his way through several tackles before releasing Ben Brooks, who sprinted clear to score. Petley added the extras.

Folkestone ran in three more tries before half-time, taking a 34-0 lead. Estonian prop Taavi Ernel scored his first try for the club, while Tolman and Ollie Brooks also touched down to punish Whitstable's mistakes.

Folkestone's disciplinary problems began after the break, when Scott Stewart was sent off for attempted retaliation.

It failed to inspire Whitstable to make a breakthrough and the lead was even extended through Richard Lama after more good work from Petley.

Mat Roots, John Eustace and Ollie Brooks all spent time in the sin bin in the second-half, but remarkably it failed to disrupt the home side's dominance. Petley, only 18, took charge of the game in the final 20 minutes, creating one try for Jack McMurray and scoring the final try himself.

The Stones return to league action this weekend when they host leaders Heathfield & Waldron.

Hythe cement place in top four with devastating win

FOOTBALL

Hythe Town 6 Sporting Bengal United 1

HYTHE Town go into tonight's crunch game at Herne Bay full of confidence after racking up their biggest win since August on Saturday.

Five players got on the score sheet as Sporting Bengal were thrashed at Reachfields, extending Town's unbeaten record to eight games. It strengthened the club's position in the Kent League's top four ahead of the trip to Herne Bay, the only side with realistic ambitions of catching leaders Faversham Town.

Bengal are a different proposition to the side which conceded 160 goals and failed to register a point last season. The result was far from being a formality, but once Hythe took the lead on 23 minutes, they never looked back.

Jon Driscoll broke the deadlock midway through the first-half, netting his first goal for the club since signing dual registration forms from neighbours Folkestone Invicta.

Two goals in a minute put the hosts firmly in charge. Dave Cook's goal was his first since November, before Gary Clarke made it 3-0. Hythe did not have it all their own way and the visitors slightly altered Scott Porter's half-time team talk by pulling a goal back on 44 minutes.

It remained 3-1 until 15 minutes before time, when Kieron Byrne ended any hope of a comeback with his 11th goal of the season. Michael Yianni completed the rout with two goals in four minutes, giving Hythe the perfect launchpad to attack Bay this evening.
